

SISTERS OF ST. MARY PRAISE FARTHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

We have permission to quote from the following letter from the Sisters of St. Mary at Farmham, N. Y.: "The sisters who have been taking Father John's Medicine are perfectly cured of their cough, after having tried several other kinds of cough medicine without effect. We recommend Father John's Medicine for the most stubborn coughs and colds. (Signed) Sisters of St. Mary, Farmham, N. Y." Father John's Medicine is composed of nourishing food elements which give new strength and rebuild wasted tissue. Prescription free from alcohol or dangerous drugs. Advertisement.

Y. W. C. A. BANS "LOVE STUFF."

National Board Votes to Reform Newspapers' Women's Pages. LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 6.—The Young Women's Christian Association is preparing for an effort to supplant with morally uplifting articles the love and beauty themes now featured on the women's pages of many daily papers, according to the annual report of the national board as read yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Dave Hennen Morris of New York at the association's fifth national convention here. "Love stuff," Mrs. Morris declared, "is detrimental to the character of the feminine readers of newspapers and is unfit for young girls to read." The present convention marks the last of the association's biennial sessions. Hereafter the national gatherings will be held every three years. Mrs. W. P. Harford of Omaha, Neb., was elected president of the convention by acclamation. Mrs. S. V. L. Penrose of Walla Walla, Wash., the retiring president, was elected vice president. Mrs. William A. Moses of Los Angeles, second vice president. Miss Harriet Broad of Boston and Mrs. A. K. G. Nashville, Tenn., were elected first and second secretaries, respectively.

ANOTHER NEUTRAL STEAMER IS SUNK

Danish Vessel Cathay Victim of Mine or Torpedo—Forty-Three Persons Rescued.

LONDON, May 6.—The dawn of each new day brings the announcement of more merchant vessels being blown up by German submarines. Still another neutral steamer has been sunk in the North sea, although whether by a mine or torpedo has not been established. The Danish vessel Cathay, from Denmark for China, was blown up. The steamer Cathay went down in twenty minutes. Her passengers and the members of her crew, totaling forty-three persons, took to the small boats, and all were landed safely at Ramsgate today.

Swedish Ship Rammled. The Swedish steamer Vanadis was rammled yesterday afternoon while at anchor off the island of Femern by the German auxiliary cruiser Silvana. The crew of the Vanadis was saved. The Vanadis was a vessel of 660 tons, owned in Stockholm. The schooner Earl of Latham was sunk by a German submarine off Kinsale, on the Irish coast. The crew was permitted to take the small boats, and by a German submarine. The submarine fired nine shells at the schooner before she sank.

Sinks Trawler Stratton. The trawler Stratton of Grimby was sunk in the North sea yesterday by the gunfire of a German submarine. The crew was taken on board the submarine. After the crew had been taken off, the sea cocks of the trawler were opened, but this method of sinking the vessel proved to be too slow. After waiting four hours the Germans fired eight shells at the Stratton. The fishermen were then ordered to embark in the small boats which had been taken from the Stratton. They landed at Hartlepool today.

Trawler Sceptre Sunk. A Norwegian steamer landed last evening the crew of the trawler Sceptre, which was torpedoed forty miles off Peterhead. The total number of trawler victims of German underwater boats since Sunday morning numbers sixteen. The submarine seems to be making a determined effort to prevent England from procuring fish in the North sea. None of the trawlers, according to the stories told by their crews, surrendered while they had the slightest chance to escape.

No Loss of Life Reported. Generally, the fishermen did not take to their boats until bullets or shells were flying about them. Despite these statements, no loss of life among the crews of the trawlers has occurred. The men say that after they had given in to the Germans they were usually treated kindly by the submarine commanders. In one case the skipper of a trawler was taken on board a submarine and complimented in English by the commander for having made "a good run of it." Several trawlers which were challenged by submarines made their escape by putting on a full head of steam and outfooting the Germans.

British Marines Board American Vessel, But Captain Foils Plans

BERLIN, May 6.—A special dispatch received here from Bremen says the Weer Zeitung reports that Capt. Duffy of the American sailing vessel Brynhild, with a cargo of cotton, has arrived at Bremen from New York. The captain declares that he sailed around Scotland. In the North sea he was stopped by a British cruiser. The British commander sent a detail of armed marines and a large quantity of ammunition on board the Brynhild, declaring that the sailing ship was stopped. The German submarine marines would shoot the German captain and by perforating the tower of the submarine with bullets make it impossible to submerge. Capt. Duffy protested, and threatened to touch at a Norwegian port. Finally the British cruiser took him into Aberdeen, whence he was permitted to proceed for Bremen.

The maritime records show that the American sailing ship Brynhild, Capt. Duffy, left New York February 19 and arrived at Aberdeen March 14. She sailed from Aberdeen March 26, for Bremen, and the next entry in the records describes her as having left Bremen April 18 for New York.

SPRING TOURNEY ON

Washington Country Club
Opens Annual Golf Contest.

MORE THAN 100 ENTERED

The annual spring golf tournament of the Washington Country Club opened this morning with the qualification round under the most favorable auspices, the entry list being large and embracing practically all the best players of the District. The weather is about all that could be desired.

The clubhouse and grounds presented an animated appearance this morning, the porches being crowded with players, and interested groups stood around the initial tee awaiting the turn that would send them away to victory or defeat. More than one hundred players entered, and as usual there is great rivalry between the different clubs as to which one will turn out the winner of the tournament. All of them have a strong group of golfers entered and it is more than likely that the matches will be very close and interesting.

Qualification Round Scores. Following are the scores turned in on the qualification round up to the time The Star's report closed:

R. Talbot, W. C. C. 90; E. W. Sterns, W. C. C. 100; G. T. Howard, W. C. C. 96; Charles Doring, C. C. 96; Hugh McKenney, C. C. 89; J. W. Beller, C. C. 90; C. N. McBride, Bannockburn, 102; W. I. ## How Reddy Fox Became a Quaddy.

The world would be a place most sad if any one were wholly bad.

Reddy Fox trotted down the Crooked Little Path. Reddy was feeling very good indeed. He had had a good breakfast. He had nothing to worry him, and he was feeling as good as over as it is possible for him to feel. Over on the Green Meadows he saw Peter Rabbit. Peter was far from the dear Old Briar Patch. In fact, he was so far from it that Reddy felt in his bones that if he were to try he might catch Peter. But, somehow, for the first time in his life, he didn't want to catch Peter. Perhaps that was because he already had had a good breakfast. You know, a full stomach is one of the very best things in the world to make good nature.

Reddy sat down and watched Peter, who was hunting for sweet clover.

"I WONDER IF HE HAS HAD HIS BREAKFAST," THOUGHT REDDY.

Presently Reddy saw a black speck in the distance. It grew larger and larger. At first Reddy had thought it was Old Mistah Buzzard, but as it drew nearer, he saw that it was Redtail the Hawk. It always had seemed to Reddy that it must be a wonderful thing to be able to fly, and many and many a time he had envied Redtail and Whittetail and Old Mistah Buzzard, as they sailed back and forth high in the sky. Some such thoughts were passing through Reddy's mind now as he sat watching Redtail swinging around in great circles.

"I wonder if he has had his breakfast," thought Reddy, and with that thought he remembered Peter Rabbit. He looked over at Peter again. Peter was very busy. He was filling that big stomach of his with sweet clover, and if there is anything in the world that Peter loves it is sweet clover. Every minute or two Peter would sit up and look around, but he didn't look up in the sky. It was very clear that he had not yet seen Redtail the Hawk.

Reddy grinned. "I reckon I'll see more of him pretty soon if I sit still," thought he. "If Redtail gets much nearer to Peter, Peter will have to show what his legs are good for if he wants to save his skin."

Round and round and round in great circles sailed Redtail and each circle brought him nearer to the point where

Peter Rabbit was having such a good time. If Peter had not seen him it was equally true that he had not seen Reddy, but he would in a minute or two. You know that Redtail has wonderful eyes.

"What's the matter with Peter?" muttered Reddy. "If I were out there hunting him, he would have seen me long ago. If he doesn't watch out, old Redtail will have him before he even knows that Redtail is anywhere near." Just then Redtail paused and seemed to hang perfectly still in the air. Reddy knew what that meant. He knew that Redtail saw Peter and that he was getting ready to drop like a shot out of the sky. Then Reddy did this way that surprised himself. He did just exactly what Sammy Jay had done when he warned Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse. He acted on impulse, and it was a good impulse. He opened his mouth and barked.

Now Peter knew what that bark meant. Peter knows Reddy's bark quite as well as he knows the bark of Bowser the Hound. He sat up quickly and looked in Reddy's direction. Once more Reddy barked, and this time Peter looked up in the sky for he saw that Reddy was looking up in the sky. Instantly Peter jumped and started for the dear Old Briar Patch as fast as his long legs could take him. Lippity-lippity-lippity! Down from the sky shot Redtail the Hawk. Peter dodged this way. Peter dodged that way. And all the time he ran with all his might. Two or three times Redtail almost got him, but not quite, and at last Peter was safe in the dear Old Briar Patch. That night Reddy just happened to pass the dear Old Briar Patch. Peter called to him. He thanked Reddy for saving him that day, and told him what do you think he did? Why, he invited Reddy to join the Quaddies. You see he had found some good sweet clover, and that is how it happened that Reddy Fox became a Quaddy.

SEBASTIAN IN FIRST PLACE.

Misses by Small Margin Election as Mayor of Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, May 6.—Missing actual election by only a narrow margin, Charles E. Sebastian, suspended chief of police, was chosen in the primary yesterday for first place on the mayor's ticket, which will go before the electorate in the general election next month. Sebastian's showing in his trial with Mrs. Lillian B. Eater in charge of contributing to the dependency of a seventeen-year-old girl and the supposed attempt upon his life Monday night admittedly affected the voting.

Now Peter knew what that bark meant. Peter knows Reddy's bark quite as well as he knows the bark of Bowser the Hound. He sat up quickly and looked in Reddy's direction. Once more Reddy barked, and this time Peter looked up in the sky for he saw that Reddy was looking up in the sky. Instantly Peter jumped and started for the dear Old Briar Patch as fast as his long legs could take him. Lippity-lippity-lippity! Down from the sky shot Redtail the Hawk. Peter dodged this way. Peter dodged that way. And all the time he ran with all his might. Two or three times Redtail almost got him, but not quite, and at last Peter was safe in the dear Old Briar Patch. That night Reddy just happened to pass the dear Old Briar Patch. Peter called to him. He thanked Reddy for saving him that day, and told him what do you think he did? Why, he invited Reddy to join the Quaddies. You see he had found some good sweet clover, and that is how it happened that Reddy Fox became a Quaddy.
